Mazda 4100 Gear Reduction Starter Fitting Instructions.

- 1) If the starter needs to be rotated on the aluminium end plate, Undo the two Cap screws and mount the aluminium end plate to the engine then fit and mark the position of the starter on to the end plate at the correct position to give correct clearances around the starter. Some applications require the top mounting bolt to be pre fitted before the aluminium plate is rotated. Remove plate and starter and fit the two or three cap screws in the index holes selected. Use a drop of locktight on the cap screws. These starters can hang down or be vertically mounted.

- 2) Reconnect the original starter cable to the 10mm stud on the new starter. The original starter had a small slave solenoid fitted on top of the starter. With Gear reduction starters this is not required, simply connect the starter switch wire straight on to the small terminal on the new starter,
